• Introduction of Department

(Department of Bioengineering and Nano-Bioengineering)

Songdo International City, home to the Department of Bioengineering and Nano-Bioengineering at Incheon National University, is emerging as a global cluster for the bio-health industry, and our department stands at the very heart of this innovation. Our educational goal is to foster creative global talents who are industry-ready and capable of creating new industries to lead the sustainable growth of the future bio-health sector. Moreover, our department leads world-class research in advanced bioengineering and nano-bioengineering. Our department provides state-of-the-art research infrastructure and comprehensive support systems to ensure our graduate students grow into next-generation research leaders
